Being Examined by U. S. Attorney—Close of Season for Lobsters—Business in Probate Court—Westerly Rebekahs to Visit Norwich Lodge—Wood-Johnson Marriage License.

Since leaving New London, Clarence H. Broley has become prominent in sporting and fraternal circles in Rhode Island. He is managing owner of the crack Centerville basketball team, and is one of the leading Eagles of the state. He is judge of the grand jury of North Providence, and No. 1888, Fraternal Order of Eagles, and has just been appointed deputy grand president of the order in Rhode Island. He was selected from a long list of candidates by the recently elected grand worthy president, Frank E. Herring.

Deputy Grand President Broley is an enthusiast of the game and has been actively connected with the organization for a long time. He joined New London aerie soon after it was instituted and since coming to Rhode Island has taken great interest in the affairs of the order. He was instrumental in the foundation of North Providence aerie two years ago and has served as worthy president. He is proprietor of the Broley hotel in Centerville.

The lobster close season is on and none can be legally taken from the waters of Rhode Island until April 15. When the season opens a new clause of the law, aimed at the Greek lobster fishermen of Newport, will be in force. This class of fishermen must go out of business unless they become naturalized citizens.

The clause which excludes unnaturalized citizens from taking lobsters in Rhode Island, provides that the commissioner of inland fisheries may grant licenses to catch lobsters only to citizens of the state who have resided in Rhode Island for at least one year next preceding the granting of such license.

Bank Commissioner William P. Goodwin will continue as temporary receiver of the Kingston Savings bank. When the question came up before Judge Stearns in the superior court at Kingston on the question of appointing a permanent receiver and thus winding up the affairs of the bank, Assistant Attorney General Cross, who appeared for the bank examiner, made statement to the effect that the bank had been in charge, up to November 1, the institution had earned $6,838.49 and the securities had appreciated about $2,000. When Mr. Goodwin took charge the total deficit was approximately $28,000 but now it has been reduced to $20,000. Mr. Cross said that the continuation of the bank was the best policy.

Tuesday was divorce day in the superior court.
Mrs. Morris Payne of New London is visiting relatives in Westery.
William Hoxsey, for many years town clerk of Westery, is soon to leave on a European trip.
Evangelist J. M. Bell of Washington, D. C., conducted services at the People's Mission Tuesday evening.

The members of Hope Rebekah lodge of Westery will make a visitation to the Norwich lodge this (Wednesday) evening, making the trip by trolley.
Charles Moore, a runaway boy from Waterford, was taken in by policeman Mitchell Monday night. The boy was returned to his home on Tuesday morning.

The Congregational church in Pawcatuck has been freed of debt and the mortgage will be formally burned, amid service of rejoicing, next Monday evening.
President Charles Perry will represent the Westery board of trade at the convention to be held in New York next Monday, for the consideration of uniformity in freight rates.

A large number of stone workers attended the funeral of Antonio Bianchi, Tuesday afternoon. Burial was in River Bend cemetery. Deceased was killed by a train near Atlantic Sunday morning.
Upon the testimony of physicians who had made examination, James G. Kenyon of Narragansett was adjudged insane by Judge Nathan B. Lewis, at a session of the Second district court held at Kingston.

One indictment has been returned by the grand jury to the superior court for Washington county, now in session at Kingston, report being made by ex-Gov. George H. Little, foreman of the jury. Otto Bauer of Narragansett Pier, was indicted for maintaining a liquor nuisance.
A marriage license was issued late Tuesday afternoon to Clarence Speed Wood of New York and Miss Amy Helena Johnson of Westery. Mr. Wood has been in Westery for some time, experimenting at the C. B. Cottrell Sons plant. Miss Johnson came to Westery when the Fisher Brothers took over the Hialop stores, being related to the managing proprietor.
